

How Might We...

Switching problem statements into questions of possibilities!

Our brains are pretty good at picking problems quickly, but focusing on the problem doesn't always lead us to finding the best solution. So, in this activity, you'll play with switching problem statements to questions of possibilities beginning with the phrase, "how might we..."

Problem: There's too much plastic pollution in the world

How might we...

Problem: There's too much homework across all our subjects

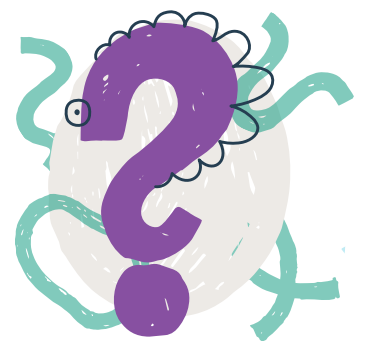

How might we...

Problem: There's so much rubbish around our school

How might we...

Problem: People are so mean on social media

How might we...

Problem: The weekend goes too quickly

How might we...

